CLASS HISTORY

In the summer of 1944 forty-five well-acquainted Freshmen picked up their textbooks and started the familiar Union High routine—giggling, flirting, cramming, laughing, talking, and some few studying. That year we were honored to have several members on the basketball team and eight girls as waitresses for the banquet.

Our officers for that year were: President, Ruth Leatherman; Vice-President, Earnest Thomas; Secretary, Jean Carpenter; Treasurer, Roy Hoyle.

With Mr. Hoyle as our home-room teacher we started off our Sophomore year by abusing the Freshmen and acting like Juniors. Since there were no Seniors that year everyone felt his importance. We even gave a class play entitled "Good Gracious, Grandma." Along with the play eight members of the class were initiated into the National Beta Club.

Class officers were: President, Ted McGinnis; Vice-President, William Robinson; Secretary, Daphne Conner.

Thirty boys and girls then called themselves Juniors. This year was an eventful one as the post-war epic had begun. Seven were on the basketball team, four attended 4-H Club Week at Raleigh. Three were bus drivers and two represented the school in a speaking contest at Lenoir Rhyne. The seven Beta Club members held staff positions on "The Trail Blazer," and Anita Bolinger won second place in a State FCX Speaking Contest. We were well represented in the Commencement Exercises this year since six were in Class Night and five were Marshals. We also had 13 of our members in the choir.

But the highlight of our Junior year was the banquet we gave April 25 in honor of the Seniors; the theme of our banquet, held at the Daniels Community House, was "A Southern Plantation Party." Colors used were green and yellow. Guest speakers were Rev. Iverson Brendle, Sr., and Mr. Graham Morrison.

Class officers elected were: President, Thomas Sain; Vice-President, Roy Hoyle; Secretary-Treasurer, Ruth Leatherman; Reporter, Earnest Thomas.

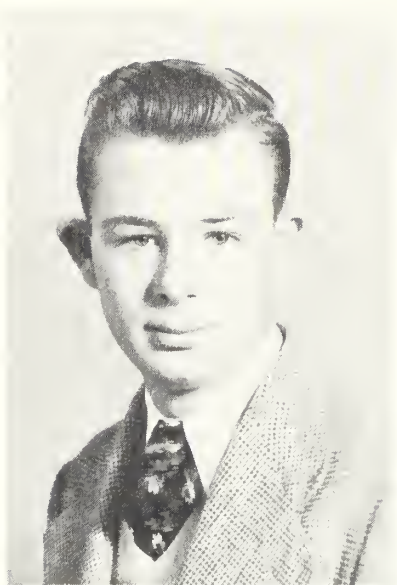

On July 21, 1947, we stepped into Mrs. Rhyne's room for our last year at Union. Our rings came the second week of school and our calling cards before school closed for summer. The "Acorn" staff was elected, and officers as follows: President, William Robinson; Vice-President, Roy Hoyle; Secretary, Daphne Conner; Treasurer, Thomas Sain.

When the fall term started we threw ourselves whole-heartedly into the task of "finishing up right." Most of the effort being directed toward our annual. Our Mascots, chosen from the first grade, are Alice Mosteller and Max Beam.

And now we number twenty-five, fifteen girls and ten boys. Smaller in number than the forty-five in the ninth grade, but closer in spirit. Seniors, after twelve long years we have reached our goal. But wait, is this our goal? No, I think not, our goal is Eternity and this is our first step up the ladder. Oh, God, that our next might be as firm and well-directed as this one.

POEM '48

Ex Animo

(From The Heart)

After this spring when we graduate
As the class of nineteen hundred forty eight
We'll no longer climb the creaking stairs
Or tip over the study hall chairs,
So let us take a backward glance
At our high school advance.
We've seen a great war come to its end
And heard famous men their peace messages send;
But like students of other times we played hard
And worked to keep our school records unmarred
Learned our reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic
Even though at times we weren't any to quick.
In few things do we excell
But occasionally we have done well.

From this you see we have quite a tribe
Which I will now try to describe.
When we all together convene
There are three Marys, two Rubys, and one Gene
Studious Thomas and Miller, his energetic pal
And the likable twins to keep up our morale
Athletic Roy and Earnest, our artist
Popular Selena and Ruth, our journalist
Handsome William, happy Ellen, and pretty Daphne
Friendly Evoyd, moody Marie, and Glenn are to be seen.
And among our ranks you'll see
Red-haired Helen and of course there's me,
Roberts, Pansy and Connie Mae
Who are sometimes sad and sometimes gay
Then there's our chief so fine
Our home-room teacher, Mrs. Rhyne.

We're quite proud of what we have done
And we're among the happiest under the sun.
But wait—We're forgetting one big thing
We wouldn't be wearing our blue and gold ring
If we hadn't had teachers who knew their stuff
And parents who knew when that ache was a bluff;
We appreciate the history and English
The lunches and your urging us to finish;
But most of all the common sense
Rather than an irregular verb tense;
Of what is to come we're no little afraid
But when we our lives have made,
You can say our success really began
When you taught us to live with our fellowman.

CLASS PROPHECY

As I sit in my beauty parlor in May, 1955, waiting for the next customer, I think back over what Helen Richard, a basketball coach at Lenoir Rhyne College, told me the day before as I was setting her hair. She told me that all my classmates were building a great future for themselves, but the most exciting thing was that Miller Reep was Governor of North Carolina, and he had as his secretary Ruby Huss. She told me that Earnest Thomas was the owner and operator of Thomas' Furniture Co. of Lincolnton, and that William Robinson was studying to be a preacher at the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Columbia, South Carolina. I knew that Roy Hoyle always did like airplanes, and I was glad to hear that he has been successful as a flier of one of the largest airplanes in the United States. He has as stewardess on his plane, Mary Scronce. Iva Lee Roberts is a happy housewife. Knowing that Thomas Sain was always smart in his school work I was not surprised to hear that he was a professor at Duke University. Another of our outstanding students, Anita Bolinger, is Lincolnton's foremost woman doctor. Knowing that a few of my classmates had great hopes of becoming nurses, I was interested in knowing about them. Mary Bolding is a laboratory technician in the Memorial Hospital in Charlotte while Daphne Conner is a nurse at the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem. Ellen Jane Peeler is making a success as owner and manager of the Charlotte Children's Nursery, and Ruby Johnson is Van Johnson's private nurse.

Next I was told that Pansy Scronce was a Congresswoman from North Carolina, and hearing of Pansy I naturally asked about Mary Alice Sigmon and Connie Jonas. I was told that Mary Alice was the first policewoman in Lincolnton, and that Connie was working in the office of Jonas and Jonas, Lawyers.

Evoyd Hull always did like to ride a motorcycle, and he is now a well-known daredevil motorcyclist.

Glenn Lutz is driving a candy truck for the Lutz Candy Company in Lincolnton.

Ruth Leatherman, who had a great desire to be an artist, is going to the School of Arts in Washington.

The three classmates that aroused my interest most were Marie Davis, and Carroll and Harold Heavner. Marie is a teacher of the first grade at Union High School. Carroll and Harold are managers of Heavner's Nursery for baby girls ranging from 18 to 25 years of age. Since I now know where all my classmates are, why go on thinking about them when I have work to do?
